Craig Wilkinson is the author of “DAD - The power and beauty of Authentic Fatherhood” and founder of the NGO- Father A Nation (FAN) which equips and inspires men to be great fathers and role models. Craig has extensive experience in experiential education, socio-economic development, as well as consulting in the corporate sector in training, strategy and human resource development. Craig presented in the esteemed TEDx Event in Cape Town, September 2014 on “Masculinity and Fatherhood”. He movingly shared personal experiences of raising two children and working with men and fathers in communities around South Africa.

In this talk Craig will address the burning issue of masculinity and the impact that healthy and unhealthy masculinity has on life for men, women, boys and girls. Understanding the masculine and feminine soul, and what boys and girls need from their moms and dads is crucial to live a full life as man or woman and for successful parenting. The talk is both practical and inspiring and relevant for men and women, moms and dads, boys and girls.
